

October 2013

Dear Friends of Kilimanjaro Mission Hospital,

Scott and Heidi have recently returned from Kenya. We were deeply saddened by the events of the terrorist attack on West Gate Mall in Nairobi where we were enjoying a cup of coffee and samosas, just two weeks prior to the event.

While in Kenya we met again with the architect in Nairobi for building plans for phase 1 and 2 of Kilimanjaro Mission Hospital. Those plans are now completed and awaiting submission for the building permit.

Heidi and I have gone through the laborious task of applying for the missionary status work permit in Kenya and are now awaiting approval.

The survey for a deep water well at the Hospital site in Kimana is completed and calls for drilling to a depth of 140 meters (459 feet).

Recent purchases include:

- 5000 liter water tank,
- 500 Kei Apple shrubs planted along the property perimeter
(It is said that when these shrubs mature, not even an elephant can penetrate them)
- a stabilized soil brickmaker
(A technique using compressed cement and soil to form bricks)
- a large tent for storage and work crew quarters
- truck load of sand
- Maasai night watchman

Kenny and Scott working on foundation for brickmaker.

We are looking forward to a medical team's arrival in November to spend three weeks assisting in "Bush Medicine"- visiting villages who do not have adequate access to medical care. Members of this team will include professors and students of Rocky Vista Osteopathic Medical School in Parker, Colorado as well as volunteers assisting with language interpretation, computerized patient intake and registration, and a fundraising media documentary team.

Funding Needs:

- Well project $14000.00
- Hospital building plans submission $1000.00
- Cement $7.00/50kg bag

Prayer requests:

- Safety of the volunteers in Kenya.
- Provisions for Kilimanjaro Mission Hospital

Blessings,

Scott and Heidi Smith
